YARNS OF THE TOWN

"The last time I punished Col. Pabst," mused John P. Bird, "was the time he opened the hydrant. That was—"

"Back up John," interrupted John C. Burns, "the colonel says that was the last time he punished you."

Mr. Burns and the former superintendent of schools were the center of a group that had gathered in the La Crosse Club. Mr. Burns had just returned from the San Francisco exposition, and had been going over a list of former La Crosse people whom he had met on his journey. Having been the first man to register in the Wisconsin building, a number of former fellow citizens had looked him up, and he had crossed the paths of others during his wanderings on the coast.

It was at Seattle that John had encountered Col. Pabst, who had been the Peck's Bad Boy of La Crosse. Pabst had immediately asked after the health of his old foe, Mr. Bird. The latter, finishing his story, said that the closing incident of the colonel's "schooling" was precipitated by the incorrigible having been caught red-handed, or wet-handed, giving some of the co-eds an impromptu bath from a spouting hydrant. According to Mr. Bird's recollection the colonel left school a vanquished and humiliated insurgent.

"I don't know about that," said Mr. Burns. "Col. Pabst tells it this way."

"He had been in bad in school, always. He'd kicked all the boys, and been kicked by all the teachers for a thousand crimes, and always he had been guilty. But this time he was innocent, although circumstantial evidence was against him, and his soul revolted at the injustice."

"He says there was a leaky hydrant in the yard, and some boys were splashing water on Hatty Moulton (Mrs. Joseph Skinner). Lilly Law (Mrs. Finch), Vera Jewel and Della Holmstrom. The colonel worshiped these divinites, so far above him, and the civility in his harem-starting soul impelled him to their defense. He beat up the girls' tormentors and was trying to close the hydrant, when John P. Bird, in the middle of the scrimmage and, jumping at a logical but erroneous conclusion, did the defender of beauty violence. Pabst says he cleaned you up, John, and that knowing he would be canned he beat you to it. He departed in injured dignity, and the school of his tribulations knew him no more."

Mr. Bird indulged himself in one of his quiet smiles.

"Well, compromise on a draw," concluded Mr. Burns.

In Santa Fe Mr. Burns met Charles Sorensen, in Grand Canyon A. C. Sorensen and in San Diego Omer Lilly. In Frisco he found Bruno Gunther and Archie Marsh; in Los Angeles there were Fred Cutler and Munson Burton. He saw Ed. Kevin in Olympia, Wash., and Florence and Raymond Sullivan and Charley Schreier in Portland. Spencer Anderson, Walter McDonald, Penny Erickson, Will Webb, Tug Wilson, Col. Pabst and Edward Fleuck were the battle group of La Crosseites he found.

Sam LaChapelle and Clarence Smith, son of Capt. B. C. Smith, he met in Vancouver. In Spokane he encountered Dudley Gallagher, Bassett Knudson, Will and Art Davidson. He met other La Crosse people, one or more in almost every city he visited.

"Travel makes the world small," said Mr. Burns.

In Cashmere, Washington, Mr. Burns met a Mr. Woods, who lived in La Crosse thirty-five years ago. Mr. Woods asked all manner of questions about the late McDonald brothers, Capt. Dan, Charley and Jennings. He had known the river followers intimately and wanted to know all about them, big and little, rich and poor. He talked interestingly of the old days. He recalled Frank Hatch, Dave Littlejohn and Capt. John Parks, of the police. He first knew Parks when the levee terror of river rats, aided by George Wiley, was shunting log trails from Black river to the saw mills. Of Capt. Peter O'Rourke, "The main guy on the Chippewa," he asked, and he told stories of "Muskrat" McCarthy, "Buckskin," Shang Nolan, "Liverpool," "Tatter Jack" Welch and Tommy Hart, the big-hearted, fearless, two-fisted gang who ran amuck on the levee and met all comers in liquoring and brawl.

"Tatter Jack" Welch was the toughest of the bunch, and for a time was king of the levee. Nolan was given to buffoonery, but could mix it in fast company. "Liverpool" was a deep sea sailor who chafed at the limitations of the river. While Tommy Hart never let slip a chance for a "mill," it fell to "Liverpool" and "Buckskin" to meet "Tatter Jack" single handed with any chance to get away with it.

Mr. Burns slanted a quizzical smile at Mr. Hurlgen. "Billy," he observed, "them was the 'good old days'."

Oh, I'm the new divinity.
Acclaimed by unanimity
To be the city Santa Claus
And foster everybody's cause.

For every ballot cast for me
Some guy will make a special plea;
Ascribe their hobbies, one and all,
They'll ride into the City Hall.

And bending low before the throne
Each satellite will claim his own—
One this, one that (Suppress your mirth!),
Till, added up, they want the Earth.

And I'm supposed a wand to wield
And all their bounties quickly yield,
But, woe is me! for as I live
I've not a single thing to give.

Speaking of sports, Jess Willard is Frank Burgess' double—twice as large.

Already the governor has made good. He has abolished the office.

In the spring rummage in the home of Capt. I. H. Moulton an interesting lead-pencil colloquy was found on the back of an S. M. letter head of the vintage of '53. The captain had sold a car of coal to Fred Underwood, superintendent of the road, now of the Erie. Fred had unloaded all but two or three bushels, and the car was held on the siding for this paltry bit of merchandise.

On the letter head, in Captain Moulton's round hand, appears the following:
F. D. U.—

"What do you intend doing with that little dab of nut coal in your car on back track? The company wants the car to use in its business."
Isaac.

On the margin of the letter is scribbled Mr. Underwood's reply:
I. H. M.—

"Dab hell! If you had it you would sell it for five tons."
F. D. U.

Joe Bartl tells this one, but says it is not for publication:
During his campaign for re-election to the office of alderman of the Fourteenth ward Joe met Charles Hildreth, a civil war veteran, and asked:

"Going to vote for me, Charley?"
"Don't know but I will," said Joe veteran. "I don't think much of the alderman we've got in this ward now."

Jess Willard, cowpuncher, has garnered a pile
By punching a golden, an African smile.
Ah, lucky Jess Willard, to leap with one punch
From a dub to an idol; to wealth,
From free lunch!

Oh, would I were blessed with his long strength of limb—
I, typewriter puncher, would take it from him.

I didn't raise my actors for the movies;
I brought 'em up to face the foot-lights' blaze;
The gentlemen who steal my darlings from me
Are art-less, heartless, dollarchasing jays.
They've swiped my audience and copied my actors.
I've got too few of each to make a mess.
There'll be no show tomorrow,
So I repeat with sorrow
I didn't raise my actors for the movies.

BATTLE IN WEST FOCUSSES ABOUT COMBRES HEIGHTS

French Capture Eparges with Terrible Loss but Keep Up Violent Attacks

GERMANS HOLD PLATEAU POSITIONS

Machine Guns Rake French as They Storm Up the Hillside with the Bayonet

PARIS, April 10.—Pierce fighting in the Combres Heights east of Eparges with a terrible toll of dead, was reported continuing in dispatches received here today. Following the capture of Eparges in a bloody engagement yesterday, the French are pressing home their advantage by heavy smashes against the center of the northern side of Teuton wedge. Over rocky hillside the battle about Combres is proceeding. The Germans hold strong positions on the top of the plateau. Their machine guns are raking the cliffs, dealing out death. But by daring rushes with fixed bayonets the French are slowly fighting their way up the heights.

The Combres battle is the most desperate now going on between the Meuse and the Moselle, according to dispatches from the scene of the fighting today. French believe they have found a weak spot in the German line and are hammering with a vengeance. In the Ailly woods, southeast of St. Mihiel, around Regneville and north of Filirey, the attack on the southern side of the wedge, is proceeding with almost equal violence.

To lift the pressure in this region, the Germans have launched offensives in the Champagne and near the sea coast. In Alsace fighting has been resumed.

Slowing Up, Says Berlin
BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, L. I., April 10.—The great battle between the Meuse and the Moselle is being waged "with undiminished violence," according to an official statement from the war office this afternoon.

The French are attacking viciously on the St. Mihiel-Etain line, particularly near the Combres heights. In the region between the Meuse and the Orne river, the enemy has met with severe defeats, the war office announced. To the south, along the Meuse line, where the French have suffered enormous losses in the last few days, their attacks are becoming less violent.

All French onslaughts against the German positions on the plateau of Combres have been repulsed, according to war office dispatches. The engagement at this point is continuing with renewed fierceness.

In the Ailly forest, southeast of St. Mihiel, in the Apremont woods and around Filirey, the French charges are lacking the intensity of two days ago. The French apparently have abandoned the attempt to take Benzananga Légrande, southwest of Chateau Salines.

The war office announced that French claims of victories near Cousainsville and Fromezey were untrue and pointed out that both these towns are beyond the German lines and in territory occupied wholly by the French themselves.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The German claim that the United States is violating the spirit of neutrality in permitting arms exportation by the allies will not be accepted by the United States.

It was pointed out today that this point was raised last September, when it became apparent that the German navy did not intend to contest with England for control of the seas. At that time the state department's legal bureau prepared for President Wilson a comprehensive opinion dealing with the entire problem.

It was held that this government would have been within its rights had it proclaimed an embargo to prevent either side from securing ammunition when the war broke out, but after the allied fleets had assumed the mastery of the seas any embargo would have been in Germany's interest and could properly have been considered by the allies an unequal act.

It was stated today that this was still the president's position. The suggestion also made in the latest German declaration that the United States has acquiesced in the British order in council placing a ban on German trade, is met with the statement that this point already has been fully dealt with in the note to Great Britain now in the hands of the foreign office.

All of this is to be set forth in a formal reply to all of the German communications, which is now being prepared by Counsellor Lansing of the state department.

UNKNOWN RUINS BEAUTY WITH ACID
DUBUQUE, Iowa, April 10.—Doctors are trying to save the eyesight and exceptional beauty of Miss Ella Gary, a stenographer, who was called to the door of her home last night by an unknown woman who threw acid into her face and escaped before Miss Gary's relatives could reach her. Doctors say that nearly a pint of vitriol or some similar acid struck the girl full in the face. No known cause for the attack is known.

Position Is That German Protest Comes Too Late Since Germany Is Not Contesting Sea Rule

EMBARGO IN KAISER'S INTEREST Could Properly Be Considered Unequal Is View of the Administration

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The German claim that the United States is violating the spirit of neutrality in permitting arms exportation by the allies will not be accepted by the United States.

EXHAUSTION HALTS BIG BATTLE IN THE CARPATHIANS

Opposing Armies Pause After Fortnight on Most Desperate Mountain Fighting Ever Seen

HALTS AUSTRIAN MOVE ON SERBS

Rome Dispatch Declares Russian Pressure Has Caused Abandonment of Invasion Plans

PETROGRAD, April 10.—Through sheer exhaustion, the opposing armies in the Carpathians have halted their operations after a fortnight of the most desperate mountain fighting the world has ever known.

Dispatches to the war office today indicated a lull in the fighting, except along the San valley southeast of Smolnik. Here the Russian left wing is in touch with the Austro-Germans fifteen miles west of the railway leading through the Usok Pass.

The Germans are again displaying some activity in the Pilica-Rawka region in Poland, according to dispatches from Warsaw.

ROME, April 10.—Hard pressed by the Russians in the Carpathians, Austria has abandoned her plan for a second invasion of Serbia, according to information reaching here from several sources. The troops intended for the new Serbian campaign are now being concentrated along the Italian frontier, where Austrian military preparations continue.

According to the Petrograd correspondent of the Milan Secolo, Austria has proposed a separate peace with Russia, with the understanding that the czar protected the dual monarchy against Italy's territorial ambitions.

Franz Josef, according to the Secolo's correspondent, has offered to cede Galicia and Herzegovina to Russia but has insisted that she be allowed to retain Trento, Istria and Transylvania.

STUDENTS SELECT GLASS ORATORS FOR GRADUATION
William Walker May Be Valedictorian of February High School Graduates; Miss Young to Speak

William Walker and Leah Young will be class orators of the February graduating class at the high school commencement program which takes place June 17. The class at a meeting held at the high school yesterday chose these two. William Walker has the highest average in the class for the four years work and will therefore probably be valedictorian.

Other matters of interest to the "grads" were discussed and a committee appointed to act with a like committee of the June class and a faculty committee to arrange for a "class day" program. In past years this "class day" has been a source of wonder to the faculty and student body as practical jokes and caricatures of the various personages about school have been offered by the graduating classes as a last "smash" at the old institution.

BATTLE STARTS FOR POSSESSION OF NEUVO LAREDO
LAREDO, Texas, April 10.—Battle for the possession of Nuevo Laredo, now held by Carranzistas, was begun at Sanchez, twelve miles distant from that city, this morning at 10 o'clock between 2,000 Villistas under command of General Rosillo Hernandez and 1,800 Carranzistas under Generals Herrera, Ricaut, Santos and Davila, who were later joined by 300 cavalry under General Garza.

The Carranza forces which were yesterday at Hsichita, were driven from that place to La Jarita and thence to Sanchez.

"F-4 LEAKY TRAP" WAS VERDICT OF COMMANDER JUST BEFORE LAST TRIP
LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 10.—"The F-4 is a leaky trap," declared Lieutenant Fred Ede, commander of the submarine lost off Honolulu last month with crew of 21. The statement was made in a letter to Elliott Ede, a brother living here, who made part of the letter public today. The letter was written just before the fatal trip, and also said: "I have just come back from the Pearl Harbor naval station where we were ten days while a new motor was being installed in the F-4. Previously we had blow-outs and other troubles."

"I expect the whole thing to go up in smoke at any time."

Even more startling statements are believed to have been contained in the letter. The dead commander's brother refused to allow a representative of the United Press to read the letter, but had a friend read only marked excerpts.

AUSTRIA PREPARING ISTRIA FOR WAR LONDON IS TOLD

LONDON, April 10.—Austrian engineering corps are rushing the construction of lines, trenches from the Italian frontier to Fiume, according to a Rome dispatch received here this afternoon, in preparation for an expected opening of hostilities by Italy.

The same form of trench construction employed in stopping the Russian advance on Cracow is being used, Rome cabled. Trains are bringing military supplies into Istria almost hourly, according to the Rome dispatch.

VETERANS OBSERVE PEACE ANIVERSARY AT ONALASKA
Appropriate Exercises Attended by 160 Veterans Who Are Guests of Pickett Post

With one hundred and sixty veterans of the civil war, and their families and friends in attendance, the Onalaska Pickett Post and the Wilson-Colwell post of the G. A. R. celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of peace between the Northern and Southern states with a camp supper at Onalaska last night.

County Supervisor L. B. Cox, of Onalaska, was toastmaster, replying with his witty remarks and incidents of the great rebellion to the addresses of the evening.

Frank Alken, member of the society of Sons of Veterans, gave the address of welcome, which was responded to by Commander C. L. Hood, of the Wilson-Colwell post here. Chris Saunders, John Dalton, Edwin Gilbert, Onalaska, R. W. Scott, La Crosse and others spoke.

The Onalaska Glee club and orchestra furnished music at intervals throughout the evening.

BECK TO RETURN TO AID RUBBER MEN
J. D. Beck, state industrial commissioner, who spent Friday in La Crosse in conference with the management of the La Crosse Rubber Mills company in an effort to secure arbitration between the employers and locked out workers, is expected to return to La Crosse Monday to pursue the lines of a peacemaking plan which has been arranged between the union and the commission.

Mr. Beck who was hurriedly called away from La Crosse Friday night, declared before he went that the trouble between the locked out men and their employers can be adjusted amicably.

LIEBLER GOES TO WALL
NEW YORK, April 10.—Theodore A. TWO ORDINANCES FOR FREE BRIDGE NOW IN COUNCIL

Aldermen Start Immediate Action to Make Gateway, from Minnesota Free of Tolls

ELECTRICAL WORKERS KICK

Long List of Buildings Is Enumerated Where Danger of Fire Is Pointed Out

Two ordinances providing for the elimination of the tolls on the Mississippi river wagon bridge were introduced for their first and second readings in the city council last night without opposition and are now in the hands of committees. The first is the regular ordinance prepared yesterday by City Attorney Higbee, and the second a substitute ordinance prepared and offered by Alderman Burt C. Smith.

Alderman Smith proposes to limit the life of the free bridge to two years' time, his ordinance carrying the provision that if Houston county and the state of Minnesota have not taken over the La Crosse turnpike and kept it in shape by the expiration of this time, that the bridge tolls be automatically resumed.

The city council granted the La Crosse Interstate Fair association a renewal of its lease on the fair grounds for a period of ten years.

Electricians Kick on Inspector
Electrical workers of the city presented to the council a complaint against the system of electrical inspection in La Crosse together with a list of buildings which now offer fire hazards because of improper wiring. More than a hundred buildings were enumerated, including the La Crosse theater, many business houses and the central fire station. The matter has been referred to a committee consisting of the mayor, city attorney and council committee on grounds and buildings.

Purchase of an American-La France fire hose wagon and chemical engine of 104 horse power was decided upon by the aldermen. It will be stationed at Engine house No. 3 and will respond to all fire alarms on the south side. It was decided also to purchase a runabout automobile for Chief Bradford to cost $1,000.

Decide Election Squabble
In canvassing the election returns the council committee found two instances where the vote was tied and the election was settled by drawing lots. In this manner Anton Alaska was elected constable in the First ward over Charles Roth and Paul Spettie, and William Boyle was chosen justice in the Twentieth ward over John Hanson.

The council adopted a resolution providing for the purchase of a "squeegee" power flusher to be used on downtown streets. It will cost $800.

The board of public works reported that total water collections in the

Weather Conditions
Light to heavy rain has occurred during the past 24 hours throughout the Mississippi valley, central states and lake region and continues this morning at some of the central and Lake Michigan stations. Throughout the west the weather is generally clear and in the Atlantic states, fair but with considerable cloudiness.

The temperature is somewhat lower in the upper Mississippi valley and plains states and warmer in Montana and Wyoming.

The pressure is low from Manitoba and the lake region to the central Mississippi valley and high over the south Atlantic states and plateau region.

The normal easterly drift of these pressure conditions will cause fair weather in this section tonight and Sunday without much change in temperature.

BROTHERS OF FEUDIST CLANS IN TRIPLE DUEL FIGHT TO THE DEATH

LETART, W. Va., April 10.—Two men are dead, two are dying and two more seriously and perhaps fatally wounded today as a result of a strange triple duel late yesterday in which six brothers, representatives of two families, paired off for nothing more deadly than a dance, drew their knives and faced opponents, elected with regard to age.

While knives flashed and the fighters cursed and groaned, several hundred men, women and children stood by, some screaming, some praying, but none dared to stop the duel.

The dead are: Earl Shirley, aged 28, and Urson Bosworth, 38, both eldest brothers of feudist clans, who were paired in the duel. They were the first to meet, and cut and slashed until both dropped.

Then Jackson Shirley and John Bosworth, the next in age of the fighting sextet, clashed, fighting a few yards from the place where their brothers were stabbing each other to death. Jackson Shirley and John Bosworth are dying, physicians said today.

Harry Shirley and Tom Bosworth paired off a few minutes later. They are boys in their teens. Both are desperately wounded, but may recover.

The feud began over a baseball game many months ago. The crowd which watched the duel had been attending an entertainment at the Howell school house, four miles from here. As the entertainment neared its close, those inside the schoolhouse heard quarreling outside. The program was cut short and the people poured out of the building to see the fight.

The fight of the oldest brothers was the fiercest. Earl Shirley fought until life left him. He was dead, spectators say, when he fell. Both he and his opponent were disemboweled and their throats were hacked to shreds.

Sheriff Lescher and a posse remained on guard at the schoolhouse all night, fearing other members of the family would clash.

PEACE RUMOR IS SQUELCHED AGAIN AT WASHINGTON

Bryan Intimates There Is No Truth in Report That Kaiser Has Indicated Readiness for Terms

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Revival of reports that Germany, "having abandoned hope of a smashing victory," has informally intimated to the United States a willingness to discuss peace propositions from the allies met with no confirmation in official quarters here today.

Secretary Bryan positively refused to comment on it. He said that reports of this character, in various guises, have been current here almost since the war began, but none was based on anything concrete. He intimated that the present report, like the others, was based more on hope than on fact.

At the White house it was said there was nothing new in the situation. The president, it was stated, still sees no immediate opportunity "or this government to enter its good offices to the belligerents."

MANY VISITING MASONS HERE

A special over the Southeastern brought a large delegation from Viroqua last evening to attend the meeting at the Masonic temple of Front Street, No. 45.

The delegation numbered nearly one hundred, arriving at La Crosse at 8 p. m. and returning at 11:30 p. m.

The degree of Master Mason was conferred on three members. A number of members of Sparta lodge were present.

It's an easier matter to convince some people than to see that they stay convinced.

BUSINESS is GOOD

At present we are in the midst of a new business era in which we have not as yet comprehended the important scope of our business literature. Printing is really a silent salesman, and the use of the mails for business and advertising is as far removed from the old methods as the modern telephone is from the couriers of the ancients. Advertising to be attractive, must have style and newness. These features are obtained through having your printing done by a first class printer. As a leader in our line, we are classed alone.

ARTHUR SHATTUCK CONQUERED EUROPE

Wisconsin Virtuoso Who Stars at Music Teachers' Convention Won Plaudits of Old World

PROGRAM IS MOST INTERESTING

Ella Smith's Lecture and Concerts by Conservatories Features of the State Meeting

If there is anything in the habit of seeking the last word upon things artistic in Europe, comment of music critics in European papers upon the work of Arthur Shattuck, the greatest piano virtuoso whom Wisconsin has given to the world, may interest those who expect to follow the program of the Wisconsin Music Teachers' association during the week of April 18-24.

The Leipziger Tageblatt refers to Mr. Shattuck as "a tremendous technician whose playing represents grandiose, fresca and elegance." The Narodny Listy, Prague, says that "his playing, brilliant in the noble meaning of the word, excels particularly through his energetic touch, which dissolves itself into a soft, full, lyric tone." The Berliner Neueste Nachrichten, Berlin, speaks of Mr. Shattuck's "great musical gifts and superb temperament," and the Signale, Berlin, warmly endorses him as "possessing a most imposing virtuosity" and for his "warmth, intelligence and reserve force."

Preceding the appearance of Mr. Shattuck, which is billed for Tuesday evening, the afternoon will be given over to Miss Ella Smith's lecture on French Music, which has attained national fame.

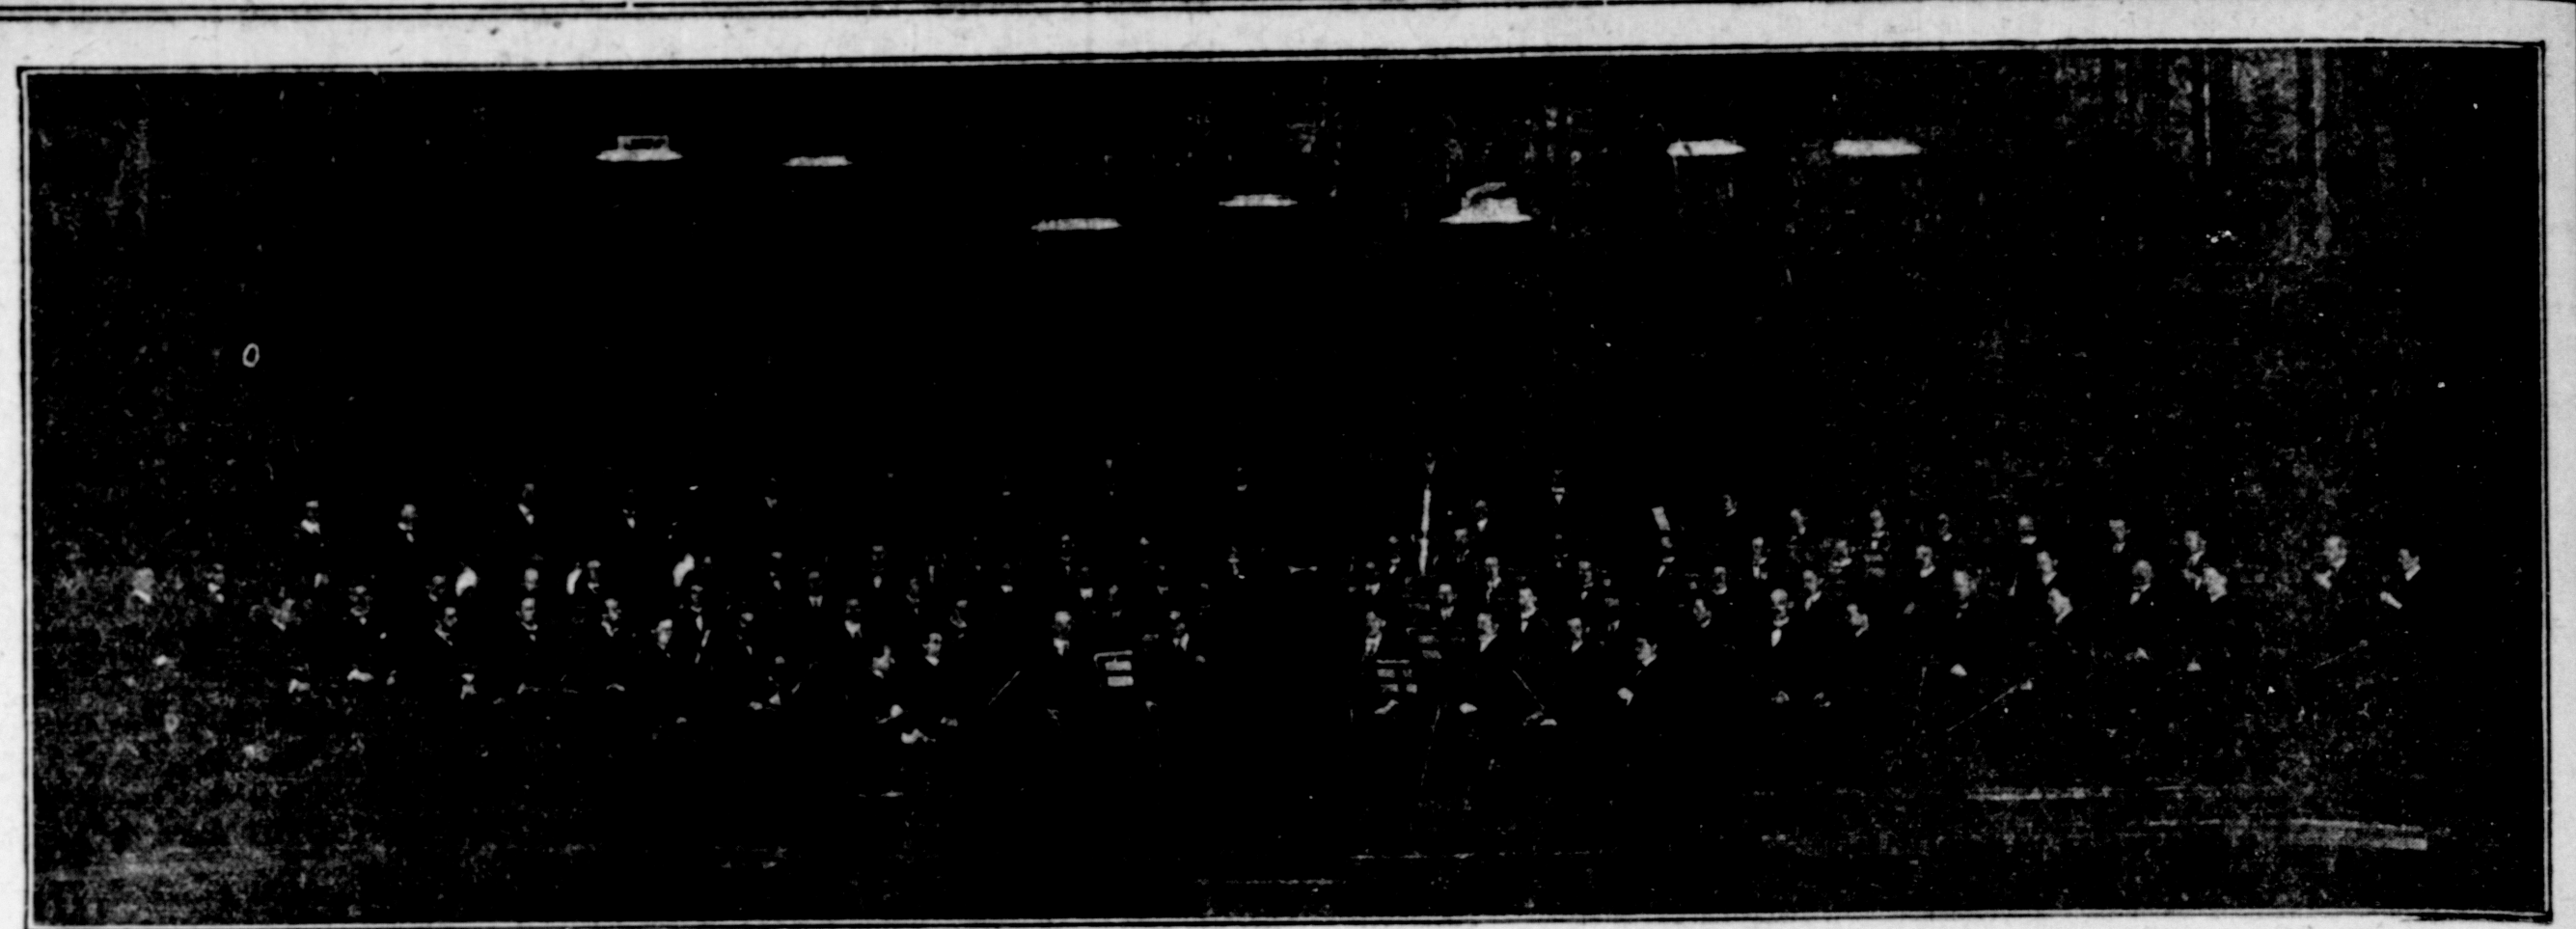

The program begins Monday with an address of welcome by President F. A. Cotton of the normal, to which response will be made by Liborius Semmann, dean of the Milwaukee Conservatory of Music and president of the National Music Teachers' association. A reception closes the day's offerings.

Tuesday and Wednesday mornings will be devoted to discussions of public school music and the standardization of music teaching.

On Wednesday, from 11:30 to 12:30 there will be an automobile tour of the city and its environs, and Wednesday afternoon will present a concert given by members of the Racine Conservatory. At 5:30 a banquet will be tendered at the Y. M. C. A., at which George W. Burton will act as toastmaster. A concert by the Madison Conservatory of Music, Wednesday evening, will close the convention.

Trick of Cuckoo and Cowbird.

The English cuckoo, like the American cowbird, leaves its single egg in the nests of birds much smaller than itself, like the hedge sparrow, the pied wagtail and the meadow pipit. When the young cuckoo—a veritable giant in comparison with its nestmates—is a few days old it pushes its companions out of the nest, and then becomes the sole object of the care of its tiny foster parents.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

PLOTTING WITH PAULA

BY CATHERINE COOPER

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Paula had been engaged to John Woodman for nine months. Only during the last few weeks had she begun to feel that she did not possess the entire strength of Woodman's love.

The evening before John had hung over Clarice Joyce and had seemed so proud of the girl who had entertained a room full of guests by her wonderful singing. On another occasion he had shown great admiration for Gladys Craven, the girl whose stories were the vogue in every nursery town.

"John admires clever women," Paula's mother had once told her daughter. "He is the kind of man who would be proud of a wife who was not a mere nobody."

"Like me," Paula said with tears in her voice. "You are the loveliest and sweetest and dearest girl in the whole of the town. Paula's mother murmured softly, her bowed head. "If John Woodman isn't proud of you he deserves to lose you. Clarice Joyce is a notorious flirt, and Gladys Craven is so conceited that she would tire any man in a month talking about herself."

She drew the now weeping Paula close to her. "You can play with any conversational ball that is flung down," she added, "and that is more than most women can do. It is an art in itself, dearie."

"It doesn't make me famous or get my picture in magazines or anything," Paula said and a half smile dawned in her tear-filled eyes.

"Who wants to be more famous than one who is loved by young and old, rich and poor. Besides," Paula's mother added with a laugh, "magazine pictures are so unflattering. That's my own girl, smile away the tears."

"But mother, dearie, I have always felt that I could do something but I don't seem to know just what it is."

"You are capable of anything, daughter mine," the mother said with her ever encouraging smile. "Just you take a few hours to yourself and analyze your own possibilities. Perhaps the silence will show you the way to hold John Woodman's love."

Paula was very still for a moment. Suddenly she looked up and met her mother's loving glance.

"Dearest," she said swiftly, "I have never told you, but I have the most wonderful imaginings; sometimes beautiful, sometimes tragic, but always very clear and intensely powerful. I was afraid that should I mention it to you you would fear for my nerves and perhaps worry in silence over me; but lately I seem to think these visions, I may call them, are given to me for some purpose. They would make excellent material for stories, but try as I may, and I have tried secretly to write them down, they are flat, flat as can be."

She turned an animated, sparkling face up to her mother. "What would you think if I advertised for an author—a co-author to work with me?"

The mother laughed quickly an affectionate little laugh. She was startled by her daughter's vehemence, but knew that the hurt of John Woodman's indifference had prompted the emotion.

"It will be a splendid source of interest to you," she told Paula. "Perhaps there is some plotless author tearing his poetic locks out for lack of good material."

"And you will keep my secret, mother mine?" Paula drew her mother into a close embrace. She felt relieved that she shared her rather weird mental state. The visions had at times quite exhausted her with their reality.

The result of the talk with her mother was that Paul found her co-author in the person of Robert Rylance, a young writer who was sadly in need of both mental and physical stimulus. So voracious was the appetite of the magazine upon which he was a member of the staff that his brain had been drained of every plot and his body of practically all its strength. The stories he had evolved and the continued stories he had begun and must finish if he was to retain his position had sapped his energy to the full. Rylance was a sorry wreck when he knocked at the door of Paula's mentality.

Mrs. Thorne, who was present at the first meeting of the co-authors, felt her motherly heart open its great doors to the fragments of a man that Robert Rylance represented. He seemed starved mentally and physically. Her first thought was for nourishing food for his body. The cup of tea and sandwiches were brought in before the conversational ball was set in motion.

When Paula and Robert Rylance met there was the instantaneous flash that illumines the way to real and deep friendship. Tired and fagged as he undoubtedly was, Rylance knew that upon meeting Paula the light had been put to a fuse somewhere in his being. He became alive; more alive than he had been in his lifetime.

He had not reckoned on inspiration hurling itself into his mind and body with so violent a manner and the shock left him a trifle weak. Paula's soothing voice, unwinding one or two of the fantastic, sensational visions she had had, quieted his nerves and made his brain sensitive to the plots she was weaving for him.

Paula remembered having crossed the ocean with a fellow traveler who had not tasted food to any extent on the voyage. She remembered vividly his return from the dining car on the train up from Fishguard. He had eaten a substantial meal and the change in his appearance was quite unbelievable. The pallor and lifelessness had given way to softly flushed cheeks and animation. Such, she thought, was the transformation that had taken place in Robert Rylance since his entrance into her presence. His mind had sprung swiftly in eager hunger to meet the inspiration offered. And she in turn flung open every channel of imagination.

"I am so glad he did not come," Paula said wearily. "I couldn't talk to any one tonight." Quite unconsciously she moved nearer to Rylance and his body stiffened, then relaxed and very tenderly he drew Paula's head down on his shoulder while his arm held her close beside him.

"It's no use, darling, he said quietly. "We are born to be mates, so why fight against it? I love you, body and soul." His lips pressed down against the softness of her hair.

"Yes, Bobbie," Paula's voice reached him like a gentle sigh. It was a sigh of contentment—of complete happiness.

Nothing to Be Thankful For. Those favored few who, by their rank or their riches, are exempted from all exertion, have no reason to be thankful for the privilege. It was the observation of this necessity that led the ancients to say that the gods sold us everything but gave us nothing.—Charles Colton.

HORNS CELEBRATE QUARTER CENTURY OF MARRIED LIFE

Banquet and Ball at Germania Tonight to Commemorate Society Event of 25 Years Ago

Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Horn, 2104 Michel street, were married in La Crosse April 10, 1890. They are today celebrating their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary with many of the friends and relatives who attended their wedding. It was one of the fashionable events of the spring of twenty-five years ago.

Eighty friends will partake of a banquet at Germania hall at 9 o'clock tonight, which will be followed by a ball. Mrs. A. Panke and Fred Bierman, bridesmaid and best man at the wedding, will sit at either side of Mr. and Mrs. Horn at the tables, and many others who participated in the event will be with them.

Red and white bunting, pink and white carnations and ferns and other flowers will decorate the hall. Short toasts will be responded to. The table will be presided over by Rev. Julius Gamm, pastor of the German Evangelical Lutheran church.

"Whys" of Moves in European War

(BY J. W. T. MASON)

NEW YORK, April 10.—11 a. m.—The new offensive which the French eastern army is developing between the Meuse and Moselle rivers has a significance far more important than the immediate objective of regaining possession of St. Mihiel. The operations are, in fact, the third effort of the year to force Germans out of their trenches. If success ensues, the allies will be encouraged to believe France and Belgium can be wholly cleared of the enemy. If failure results, the task of winning the German trenches must become remote and beyond the present ability of the allied armies.

The two preceding attempts to dislodge the Germans were made by the French in Champagne, and by the English at Neuve Chapelle. Both failed, except in a minor degree. In each case the Germans were driven back a few hundred yards, but this effort was so exhausting that the allies were unable to follow up their offensives. They were compelled to rest content with purely local gains, when their real object was to obtain success of dominant magnitude.

Now comes the third frontal attack on the German trenches. If it, too, fails to do more than secure slight advantages at isolated points along the battle front, the impression must be strengthened that the land campaign in the west has reached a deadlock.

Signs of Pain. It is difficult to estimate the degree of pain, but there are certain signs of suffering which are unmistakable—the pinched features, the knotted brow, the rolling eyes with widely dilated pupils, the ashen countenance, the cool and clammy skin, the thready pulse, the increased blood pressure, the hands alternately clenched and opened, the cries and groans and the bodily contortions. All these present a definite picture with which every experienced physician or nurse is familiar.

FREE BRIDGE DAY

We are deeply impressed with the idea of holding a FREE BRIDGE DAY.

Citizens of that portion of Minnesota nearest La Crosse should enjoy the friendliest relations with the people of this city. That they have not done so has been due to the fact that there has been something between us. The "something" is the toll bridge. It is about to be removed, and with it will go every vestige of the latent ill will that has existed.

Isn't that a source for celebration? What could be more important than the removal of the bone of contention and the restoration of sincere harmony? There is no richer farming territory in the country than that just over the river; there are no better citizens than the people who live there. They are our folk and we are theirs. Nature has so arranged. Because of an artificial obstruction, relations have been strained. With the removal of the obstruction Nature will assert itself and we shall assume our natural relationship of a single community bound by ties of common interest and mutual good will.

Let's make FREE BRIDGE DAY a great, happy family gathering in which we shall rub elbows and button-hole each other in the good old-fashioned neighborly way.

THE CASE AGAINST TOM McDONOUGH

There had been a shooting affair. A man lay presumably dying with a bullet in his head, and his assailant was at large with a "thirty-eight" in his possession. Tom McDONOUGH was sent to take him. Tom found the gun-fighter on the levee. As the officer approached the felon covered him with the revolver. Tom advanced. The man pulled the trigger three times. Tom looked into the eye of the weapon and walked deliberately up to him. He did not flinch or hesitate. He took the man to the station. Examination of the weapon showed that all three of the cartridges bearing the imprint of the pistol firing pin were loaded.

McDONOUGH has a temper. He is one of those big men in whom emotion is strong. In one moment his fighting blood impels a blow; in the next he sympathizes with some unfortunate with the tenderness of a woman. His weakness is to make the grievance of the law his personal affair. He has had trouble as a result of this tendency.

Personally McDONOUGH is a clean fellow. He maintains a good home, and with his wife is interested in a neat little business. The McDONOUGHs have ambition.

A complaint has been filed against McDONOUGH by John Mulder, charging McDONOUGH with having used violence upon an unknown tramp to "speed the parting guest."

In the old river days the late Captain Parks won his laurels by terrorizing the tramps and river rats who infested Mississippi river cities. To "beat them up" was his daily routine. His physical prowess had a wholesome effect in maintaining law and order in the community.

But ideas change. The modern rule is strictly against unnecessary violence. It is the better way. Mr. Mulder was shocked by the treatment accorded the thriftless wayfarer by McDONOUGH. He felt it was his duty to make a complaint to the police commission, and after considerable hesitation, he filed the charges.

It would be improper for one who was not a witness of the incident to discuss the merits of the charges. However, it seems just in dealing with the charges against the officer to bear in mind the excellent qualities of courage, attentiveness to duty and social morality which characterize Tom McDONOUGH.

ST. PAUL TO HAVE SPRING ART EXHIBIT

Members of the Art Society of La Crosse will be interested in a recent announcement by the St. Paul Art Institute of an exhibit to be held in St. Paul May first to ninth.

The significant feature of the announcement is that the exhibit has been broadened to take in with Minnesota, which formerly was exclusively represented, the states of Wisconsin, Iowa, the Dakotas and Montana. Thus Wisconsin art will have its inning in the Minnesota exhibit, which becomes representative of Northwestern art.

Formerly the spring exhibit in Minnesota was under the joint patronage of the Art Institute and the Art society. For the past two years there has been no spring exhibit, it having been felt advisable to hold the exhibit as a feature of the Minnesota state fair. The venture has been a success, and the fall fair exhibit of exclusively Minnesota art will continue.

However, feeling that Spring is a better time for seeing pictures, that the demand for an exhibit at that time exists, and that the group of states mentioned should be included to make the event representative, the Art Institute has decided to establish the spring exhibit, which is an added attraction and in no sense a competitor of the autumn exhibit.

The exhibit will be enhanced by a display of masters borrowed largely from the rich private collections of the Twin cities.

Mr. Huerta, who is "coming back," should take notice of the results of similar attempts on the part of Jim Jeffries, Jack Johnson, Bat Nelson, et al.

Russia is having considerable difficulty over dead-heading into Hungary through the Carpathian passes. It's our guess the czar will have to pay his way.

Business Is Good

WASHINGTON, April 10.—America's favorable December, January, February and March trade balance, according to figures furnished President Wilson by Commerce Secretary Redfield today, is approximately $600,000,000. For the week ended last Saturday, the report says, the figures were $21,621,112.

The secretary says that the foreign trade shows no signs of falling off, adding:

"Undoubtedly our international position will be greatly strengthened as a result of the enormous export trade we are doing, especially with Europe."

"When the war is over we will owe Europe less than we have in a generation, and Europe will owe us, which she has never done before, and owe us a great deal."

"In future less of the goods which we export each year will go to pay interest on borrowed capital, and more will go toward actual repayment of that capital directly through the taking back of our securities, or indirectly through investments by us abroad."

"Both of these processes are under way at this time. One is shown in the European liquidation here and the other in the placing of European issues in the American market."

CHAPTER X.

It Is the Devil Who Drives.

"Who goes there?"

"Ischeriden."

"It is well. Pass on!"

All still again. The dull footsteps of the patrol on its round faded in the distance. A gust of wind, awakened by the voices, whispered for a moment amid the palm-crests and then, reminded of some secret errand, swept on southward to its destination.

No. 4005 shouldered his rifle and resumed the monotonous tramp backward and forward across the narrow entrance to the grave. He moved rapidly and from time to time glanced about him with the straining vigilance of a man who suspects his loneliness.

Southward lay open country, a silver stretch broken by a dark ridge of sand-hills and a clump of high palms rising in majestic solitude from the hidden green of their oasis.

To the north Sidi-el-Abbes, beneath the magic moonlight a white-walled city of enchantments, dreamed while her minarets kept ceaseless watch over the distant desert.

Richard Farquhar listened. The world immediately round him slept, lulled by a far-off music too vague and languorous for melody. But beyond was life. Its signals of golden lights flashed at him between the black stems of the trees; he heard subdued laughter and then the soft fall of a woman's feet. For all the haunting realization of danger he did not turn. He had not been conscious of hope, but hope, wild and unreasoning, sprang out of nothing and drummed the mad blood into his ears.

"Mr. Farquhar!"

He turned, and the butt end of his rifle jarred against the stones. She stood a few paces from him in a narrow clearing where the moonlight fell full upon her, and he saw every feature of the small face, every phase of her expression changing from a curious mockery to grave concern. He bit his teeth together.

"I was dreaming," he said roughly, "otherwise I might have run you through by mistake. I am expecting other visitors. Go back now. You have no right here."

"No right?" she echoed, her bright eyes busy with the shadows that surrounded them. "Is it Mr. Farquhar who says so?"

"I mean that I am here to keep guard—and that you are a guest. You belong over there—to the others."

"That's nonsense. Did you ever hear of a paid companion belonging to anybody but her particular slave-driver? I am no more a guest than you are. But I am here perhaps for the same purpose—to keep guard over one woman."

He was silent a moment. She came nearer, and he saw that her face was whiter than the moonlight, and that the smiling mouth concealed hard lines of suffering. Instantly anger and pain vanished, overwhelmed by a chivalrous pity.

"Miss Smith," he said gently, "you are trembling. Are you ill?"

"Of course not. Only cold. The last absurdity of our civilization is a woman's dress. The fact that we do not all die of pneumonia is surely proof of the survival theory."

A Second "Under Two Flags" THE RED MIRAGE

By I. A. R. WYLIE

Author of 'The Native Born, The Daughter of Brabha, Etc.'

Copyright The Lobbe-Merrill Company.

A moment later they passed out of the somber shadows into the light, from the unfathomable eastern hush into the babble and movement of the West. The doors of the Villa Bernotto's stood open, and through the golden circle slight figures in uniform, women in many-colored gowns from Parisian ateliers drifted in gay unbroken sequence. A string of palms upon the veranda, charged the surrounding stillness with a sweet incongruous sentimentality, beneath which a discreet yet persistent murmur ran like an undercurrent, bubbling up here and there into a lighter note of laughter. Instinctively Gabrielle glanced back for a moment. It was as though she had been lifted suddenly out of a black mysterious sea on to a fairy island, and that against the haze of light she could hear the waves beating in sullen threatening disappointment. When she turned again she found that Sylvia had already vanished into the crowd, and that she was alone with Arnaud. He glanced down at her. Over his pale features there passed a shadow of pity and annoyance.

"I am afraid my wife is not always very considerate," he said apologetically. "You scarcely know any of these people."

"I know one or two," she answered. "In any case I like to look on. You are not to bother about me. I can take care of myself."

"Yes, you can take care of yourself," he nodded moodily. "There are not many of us who can do that much, Miss Smith. We pretend that we hold the reins, but it is the devil who drives."

"Yes," she admitted, "our particular devil."

"Do you know that? How do you know?"

"Perhaps I have been into 'the ditch myself, Captain Arnaud. Perhaps—and then she looked him full in the face—"perhaps tonight has taught me."

He turned away, his mouth twitching.

"All of us are mad—some more, some less—otherwise, we could scarcely bother to live."

"That's cynical and wise all in one," he looked down at her again. His unsteady hand dropped from his mustache. "Why—Miss Smith—are you crying?"

"Crying? Not exactly. I may have tears in my eyes. I am ridiculous like that. The tragedy of life always overwhelms me at the wrong moment."

"Whose tragedy?" he asked.

She looked him again in the face. "Yours and another's, Captain Arnaud," she said, and then before he could answer she turned from him and passed out resolutely on to the veranda.

He did not follow her beyond the first step. A man in civilian dress had come out of a flowered alcove, and as he saw his face Arnaud drew back with white lips. The stranger appeared not to notice him. He limped out on the veranda, his uneven step curiously noiseless.

Gabrielle Smith stood with her hands resting on the balustrade, her face lifted to the sky, already silvered with the first blush of the rising moon. All was quiet. The band had ceased playing; the voices behind them had sunk to a vague murmur which in the stillness and darkness sounded unreal, like the rustle of the shadows beneath the trees.

"Gabrielle," the man said scarcely above his breath, and then louder, with a note of impulsive interrogation, "Gabrielle!"

She turned and looked at him, and neither spoke. Whatever surprise or consternation there had been in her face had vanished. Her eyes met his haggard bewildered appeal steadily and sadly. Then she made a slight gesture—a gesture which seemed to indicate an immeasurable distance—and passed down the steps into the darkness.

CHAPTER X.

It Is the Devil Who Drives.

"Who goes there?"

"Ischeriden."

"It is well. Pass on!"

All still again. The dull footsteps of the patrol on its round faded in the distance. A gust of wind, awakened by the voices, whispered for a moment amid the palm-crests and then, reminded of some secret errand, swept on southward to its destination.

No. 4005 shouldered his rifle and resumed the monotonous tramp backward and forward across the narrow entrance to the grave. He moved rapidly and from time to time glanced about him with the straining vigilance of a man who suspects his loneliness.

Southward lay open country, a silver stretch broken by a dark ridge of sand-hills and a clump of high palms rising in majestic solitude from the hidden green of their oasis.

To the north Sidi-el-Abbes, beneath the magic moonlight a white-walled city of enchantments, dreamed while her minarets kept ceaseless watch over the distant desert.

Richard Farquhar listened. The world immediately round him slept, lulled by a far-off music too vague and languorous for melody. But beyond was life. Its signals of golden lights flashed at him between the black stems of the trees; he heard subdued laughter and then the soft fall of a woman's feet. For all the haunting realization of danger he did not turn. He had not been conscious of hope, but hope, wild and unreasoning, sprang out of nothing and drummed the mad blood into his ears.

"Mr. Farquhar!"

He turned, and the butt end of his rifle jarred against the stones. She stood a few paces from him in a narrow clearing where the moonlight fell full upon her, and he saw every feature of the small face, every phase of her expression changing from a curious mockery to grave concern. He bit his teeth together.

"I was dreaming," he said roughly, "otherwise I might have run you through by mistake. I am expecting other visitors. Go back now. You have no right here."

"No right?" she echoed, her bright eyes busy with the shadows that surrounded them. "Is it Mr. Farquhar who says so?"

"I mean that I am here to keep guard—and that you are a guest. You belong over there—to the others."

BOY SCOUTS OPEN SEASON OF HIKES

Thirteen Youngsters Take
Work in First Class with Fourteen Mile Jaunt
Today

Sunrise this morning saw the dawn of one of the busiest days in the history of boy scoutcraft on the north side. There was not one of the forty some odd members of Trip 1, Boy Scouts of La Crosse, who today did not go some work.

Thirteen boys, who recently finished the second class examinations together with about twenty-five others, at 9 o'clock left the north side in companies of two or three for their fourteen-mile hike, one of the first requirements in the work of first class scouts. Some of the boys headed toward Midway, others took the West Salem direction and still others went in a northeasterly direction toward Holmen through the town of Campbell. The greater part of the day was spent, as some of the scouts are little more than twelve years old.

Many Make Hikes

The boys making the hikes were Leonard Jenks, Ralph and Lloyd Spence, Errol Olson, Harry Ridpath, Lynn Frayn, Allen and George Fraser, Paul Mahoney, Guy Olson, David Bonesar, Orby Moss and Ferris Haddad. The other boys of the troop will make their hikes later.

The boys remaining at home today were busy in the cleanup campaign inaugurated a week ago by Scoutmaster Harry Spence. Whatever of rubbish remained in back yards at nightfall today was removed. The boys will visit people who are unable to do their work and volunteer their service next week.

Plans for a troop hike, which will probably be held next Saturday, will be laid at the regular semi-monthly trip meeting Friday night at the North Presbyterian church. The hike, it is understood, will be taken by all the members of the troop.

FRENCH BARK IS TORPEDO'S VICTIM

Crew Given Ten Minutes to Get Over Side by the German Commander

LONDON, April 10.—The French bark Chateaubriand, bound from London for New York, was torpedoed and sunk off the Isle of Wight Thursday noon, according to a dispatch received here today. Captain Grondin and her crew of twenty-four men landed at the French watering place of Le Treport, sixteen miles northeast of Dieppe, after drifting more than twenty-four hours in severe weather.

The Chateaubriand left London with a cargo of chalk on Tuesday, after a two days' delay in departure. She was drifting in almost a dead calm through the channel Thursday noon when a submarine signaled her to heave to.

The submarine commander gave the crew ten minutes to get over the side.

The submarine made off without offering any assistance, according to Captain Grondin.

NEW YORK, April 10.—The Newcastle steamer Hungarian Prince was chased by a German submarine off Beachy Head in the English channel, her officers declared upon her arrival here today.

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks
NEW YORK, April 10.—The stock market opened with the same show of strength exhibited yesterday. Amalgamated opened 67 1/2, up 1/2; Interboro Metropolitan 68 1/2, up 1/2; and Baltimore & Ohio 75 1/2, up 1/2; Missouri Pacific 14 1/4, up 1/4; New Haven 62, up 3/4; American Smelting 70, up 1 1/4; Union Pacific 120 1/2, up 1/2. United States Steel at 57 to 58, up 1/2 to 3/4 on opening sales of 15,000 shares. Bethlehem Steel opened at 111—off one point—on a 100 share transaction.

The floor was crowded with brokers, recalling the before the war days. The advance held good in practically all lines.

11 a. m.—Trading continued active, although there was considerable realizing. The stocks generally active were very strong in some cases almost excitedly strong. Brokers were generally predicting that the market had not yet reached its climax.

Rock Island advanced to 39—up 4 1/4—but shortly afterward dropped back to 35. Coppers were active.

United States Steel closed at 56 and Bethlehem Steel at 108.

The market closed irregularly, with prices somewhat easier but the general strong tone sustained. Total sales made it a record breaking Saturday market.

Chicago Grain Review
CHICAGO, April 10.—There was a sharp decline in wheat prices today at the opening, and until well toward the close the heaviness continued. Selling pressure, weather conditions and weak cables chiefly were responsible. A rather sharp advance toward the close in May and smaller advances in July and September just before trading ended was partly a reflection of the buoyancy in the New York stock market. Closing prices of $1.55 1/2; $1.22 1/2, and $1.10 represented advances over the opening of 1/2c, 3/4c and 1/2c. A firm but not large buying movement also was partly responsible for the rise.

Corn was down with wheat. Opening prices were 1/4c and 1/2c lower than yesterday's close. At the close today they were down 1/4c and 1/2c below opening, there being no buying to speak of as there was in wheat to counteract wheat's earlier effort.

May oats closed up 3/4c and unchanged for July and September. Prices had been heavy at the opening, being lower by 1/4c lower for May and July and 3/4c lower for September than yesterday's close, there being little buying activity.

Provisions were well up on light receipts, at the opening. An active market after the first hour kept prices steady.

Chicago Cash Grain

Week Financial

BANK STATEMENT
NEW YORK, April 10.—The weekly actual bank statement today showed the following changes:
Surplus decreased, $43,100.
Loans, decreased, $5,221,000.
Reserve in own vaults, decreased, $237,000.
Reserve in federal reserve banks, increased, $244,000.
Net demand deposits, decreased, $7,819,000.
Circulation, increased, $16,000.
Aggregate reserve, $542,571,000.

(Copyright, 1915, by the New York Evening Post.)

NEW YORK, April 10.—Beginning with another violent rise in several stocks, today's market at once encountered heavy realizing sales, under which prices broke, in many instances, 1 to 2 points from the earlier high level. After this reaction, the market fell into great confusion and irregularity, with conflicting movements throughout the list. In the final half hour another rush of buying carried prices up again; some stocks reaching the highest of the day, while others failed to recover the preceding losses. Volume of trading was on the basis of much more than a million shares for a five-hour day.
The actual week-end bank statement showed the position of a week ago to have been closely maintained. Loans were reduced $5,200,000, despite the outburst of stock exchange speculation, and the surplus reserve remained virtually unchanged.

BIG GERMAN ARMY AIDS AUSTRILIANS IN DEFENSE OF CRACOW

Two views of Cracow's famous citadel and map showing city's location.

A German army of 160,000 men is said to have gone to the aid of Austria, the German fighters to aid the Austrians in the defense of Cracow and the Carpathians. In the meantime the Russians are sweeping slowly westward. First they took Lemberg, then Przemyśl; now they are eager to take Cracow, as it seems to be the easiest gateway into Germany.

L. M. SHAW'S BANK AT PHILADELPHIA INVOLVES MR. GUND

Sensational Charges Made Against Directors by the Stockholders Who Attempt to Gain Control

Charges of gross extravagance, misapplication of funds and the illegal payment of fees to directors of the Robert Morris Trust company of Philadelphia are being sifted today in that city.

Henry Gund of La Crosse is one of the stockholders of the institution who has voted to name a committee to investigate the affairs of the company and conserve the stockholders' property. Logan M. Bullitt, counsel for the stockholders, had Charles F. Jenkins and E. D. Ackerly of Philadelphia appointed today to conduct the investigation.

The Robert Morris Trust company is one of Leslie M. Shaw's enterprises. Mr. Shaw was secretary of the treasury under President Roosevelt and figured as president of the defunct Carnegie Trust company in New York in 1907-08.

According to telegraphic advices from Philadelphia, the stockholders are now making a sensational battle for control of the trust company. They charge the directors with wholesale grafting.

NAVY GRADUATES PROSPER

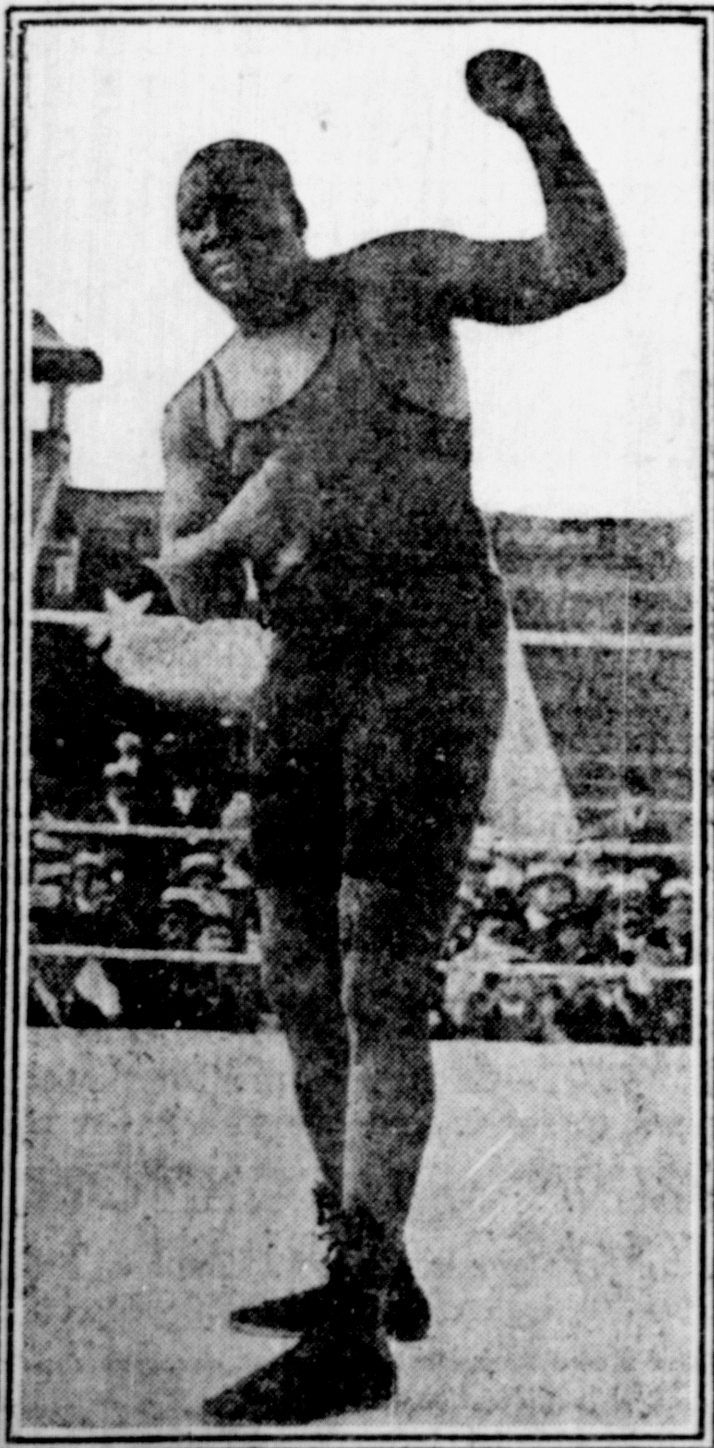

Local Naval Recruiting Officer E. A. Nippa has received several inquiries relative to the new navy schooling system established by Secretary of the Navy Daniels. There are at the present time 16,000 men in the navy taking academic courses. Several graduates of the electrical school, a branch of the schooling department, are now holding positions in La Crosse.

TWO CRUSHED IN BUILDING

TOLEDO, O., April 10.—Anthony Walczak, 50, and an unidentified man were killed and another unknown fatally injured, and twelve more seriously hurt, when a portion of a building being erected for the Willys-Overland Automobile company collapsed today. But for a warning by James Johnson, 30, a mortar mixer, all would have been killed.

Speaking of wasted time, the punctual persons wastes a good deal keeping appointments with those who are not.

Jack Johnson as He Appeared for Willard Fight

This photograph shows plainly that Jack Johnson was too fat for his fight with Jess Willard in Havana. Nevertheless, he was in fair condition, better condition than those who have read stories of his Paris dissipation believed. It seems that Johnson really worked hard in Havana, and it seems to be true that he was not in such bad condition when he landed there.

PEGGOLD WINS MANY BATTLES IN THE AIR

Adolphe Pegoud.

According to dispatches from Paris, another daring exploit has just been added to the long list of those successfully carried out by Adolphe Pegoud, the famous French aviator, who is reported to have attacked and brought down a German taube a few days ago while he was alone on patrol duty near Saint Menchould.

PRESIDENT FAVORS THROUGH WATERWAY

WASHINGTON, April 10.—President Wilson today wrote to Governor Devine of Illinois, endorsing the plan for a through waterway from the great lakes to New Orleans. "I am in sympathy," he said, "with your desire to improve the navigable waters of the United States in such manner as to encourage actual commercial navigation on a permanent basis."

EDWARD BURROWS DIES

Edward E. Burrows, 23, died at 8 o'clock this morning at his home, 421 Vine street, after a long illness with a complication of diseases. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Burrows of La Crosse; his widow and two children, and three brothers and four sisters. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2:30 at the home. Interment will be made in Oak Grove cemetery.

THIRD REGIMENT'S BAND IS FAMOUS

Director Has Bookful of Laudatory Press Notices; Personnel Almost Unchanged for 15 Years

Thirty-eight men will be with the Third Regiment band when that famous military organization opens tomorrow at the Majestic theater. With few exceptions the players are the same as when the band was organized fifteen years ago. It is the same personnel that has made the band, hailing from the little town of Viroqua, the pride not only of the Third regiment, but also of the entire state militia.

Its fame is widespread all over the state, as the following press comment shows:

"There are nearly 2,000 men in camp. Accompanying the infantry are the two regimental bands. The concert by that of the Third this evening was one of the best ever heard on the reservation."—Milwaukee Free Press.

"No band present at the fall festival has excited more favorable comment from the public than the Viroqua band which headed the floral parade yesterday."—Madison State Journal.

Director O. G. Brown has a bookful of similar notices clipped from papers all over the state and in adjoining states, received when the band was on its annual concert tour or filling special engagements.

MILWAUKEE LANDS MACHINE GUN SQUAD

MILWAUKEE, April 10.—Company A, Wisconsin National Guard, the oldest militia body in the state, went out of existence today. It was abolished to make room for the new machine gun company, which will be one of three in the state. The company will be formally mustered out in a few days and its men will be apportioned among the other companies in the city. The new company will be formed from men drawn from all the local militia organizations.

The Milwaukee company will consist of two officers and sixty men, with four machine guns, six horses, four pack mules and sixteen gun mules. Each man will be armed with a revolver instead of a rifle. Captain Guy D. Armitage, present commander of company A, will head the new company.

FINES FOR FLIRTS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 10.—Alice Wagner, 19, and Catherine Janotowski, 18, today were fined $5 apiece by Judge Page for being "the champion flirts of Mitchell street." They were alleged by policemen to have used their eyes to good advantage in inveigling sodas, and even stronger beverages from impressionable and innocent young men.

DRINK TOO MUCH SODA WATER

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 10.—Morgantown high school boys and girls smoke cigarettes and drink too much soda water, according to Judge Sturgis, in a charge to the grand jury.

A bit of whiskey now and then would not be half so bad as too many drinks of soft stuff, he declared.

Camps New and Old.

At an auction sale in New York city recently an oriental rug sold for $2,700; it was bought for a "private camp." Shades of Kit Carson, Davy Crockett and other pioneers in camp life will please take notice and reflect on the change in standards since "roughing it" first became popular.

Some Love Lacking.

Helen was playing on the porch, where she spied a white moth and asked her mother to kill it. Her mother said, "But, Helen, you ought to love the poor little moth." "I do love it, mother, but I don't love it enough."

HERMAN HURRIED

NEW YORK, April 10.—Herman Horowitz, 32, a clerk, read somewhere in studying to be a hypnotist that ether would strengthen his mind "to get a better grip on other minds." He inhaled the drug daily and then today, to hurry things swallowed some. Three physicians and two policemen finally pronounced him out of danger.

NO ELECTION TO FILL PLACE OF CHRIS. J. PAULUS

Governor Philipp Not Inclined to Order Plebiscite to Choose Successor of Suicide

MADISON, Wis., April 10.—(Special.)—Governor Philipp is inclined not to call a special election to fill the vacancy left by the death of Chris Paulus, Milwaukee assemblyman, whose spectacular suicide yesterday closed a troublesome legislative career. The session is now quite well advanced. The calling of a special election to fill a vacancy is left to the discretion of the executive. Governor McGovern decided two years ago to order one when A. E. Schwittay, a Marinette assemblyman died, and in this plebiscite Captain James Larson was chosen as Schwittay's successor.

MISS WALES LEAVES TO PROMOTE PEACE AT HAGUE MEETING

MADISON, Wis., April 10.—(Special.)—Miss Julia Grace Wales of this city and author of the Wisconsin peace plan, left for The Hague today to attend the world peace conference called by Queen Wilhelmina of Holland. Women from every country in the world, now at peace, are expected to attend the conference. Together with several other representatives of the United States, Miss Wales will sail for Holland on April 13.

The Wisconsin plan which was drawn up by Miss Wales and which was adopted by the American Peace society at the recent Chicago convention, has attracted a great deal of attention throughout the entire world.

President Wilson, Secretary Bryan, President David Starr Jordan of Leland Stanford university, Mrs. Percy Penypacker, president of the Federated clubs of America, and many others have declared that it is the most feasible and sensible plan yet advanced. Miss Wales proposes to call a world conference of the neutral nations to sit in constant session for the purpose of taking up every international problem occasioned by the European conflict and to be ready at any time to aid in the making of a universal peace whenever any nation, caught by the "economic pinch" is forced to sue for peace.

LINCOLN'S SON WILL TELL OF WAGES PAID TO PULLMAN PORTERS

Robert T. Lincoln.

Robert T. Lincoln, son of the late Abraham Lincoln, and president of the Pullman company, has been called as a witness in the investigation being made in Chicago by the federal industrial commission into the wages paid porters on Pullman cars. Much testimony has already been introduced to show that the company pays the porters such low wages that they must depend on tips to eke out a living.

PUBLIC OPINION IS URGED AS ARBITER

First Lieutenant of Late E. H. Harriman Says It Is Only Route to Industrial Peace

CHICAGO, April 10.—"The only way the nation will get industrial peace is to put matters of controversy between labor and capital up to the public—let the public know what it's all about—and rest secure that public opinion will render an equitable decision."

Julius Kruttschnitt, first lieutenant of the late E. H. Harriman and president and chairman of the board of directors of the Southern Pacific railroad, told the federal commission on industrial relations that the older he grew, the more convinced he became this was the only way to settle industrial disputes.

It was in that manner, he said, that the Illinois Central employees lost their strike in 1911.

Kruttschnitt was put through a grilling three hours by members of the commission. He was rigidly quizzed regarding his long association with E. H. Harriman, his attitude toward labor and his conduct and that of his associates during the several strikes extending over a period of ten years on the Harriman lines.

CONFESSES CHARGES WERE FRAMED UP

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 10.—Defamation suits were expected today to follow the announcement by Police Chief Charles H. Sebastian, candidate for mayor, that charges of immorality against him were "framed" to ruin him politically. Miss Victoria Desparte, a minor, confessed that her grand jury testimony against Sebastian which resulted in his indictment and suspension, were inventions directed by his political enemies. The Desparte girl said she had become conscience stricken.

LA CROSSE TEACHERS

The Business Journal, published in New York, announce that a series of articles entitled "Hints to Stenographers" will appear in that magazine for the next six months. The articles were written by Mrs. Margaret Cavanaugh, a teacher in the commercial department at the La Crosse high school. The object of these talks is to give the beginning stenographer the advantage of the experience of older stenographers and allow them to profit by the successes and mistakes of other members of their profession. The first article appears in the April issue of the Business Journal.

Mrs. Cavanaugh has written much along this line before and is recognized as an authority in stenographic work. Two years ago a manuscript prepared by her was purchased by a Cleveland publishing house and is now being published by them. This work also deals with commercial work.

FRENZIED SCENES ENACTED TODAY ON STOCK FLOOR

Brokers Fight Way to Posts to Execute Orders Amid a Deafening Din

NEW YORK, April 10.—Wild scenes of the stock market's history rivalled today, in the frenzy of a short two hour Saturday session. Floor attendance was the largest in months. Piercing, deafening din swept out to Wall street. Brokers literally fought their way to posts to execute orders.

The scramble on the stock exchange was duplicated in the Consolidated. The riot spread to the curb market.

Spectators thronged all markets to view the scenes, unparalleled for almost a year.

In two short hours of delirious excitement today, the New York Stock exchange broke all records of recent years for Saturday trading. The local sales were 813,200 shares. In yesterday's full day of trading 1,275,760 shares changed hands.

The buying rush, which bore every evidence of spontaneity on the part of the public, carried practically every stock in the list up 2 or 3 points.

POSSE OF FARMERS CHASING YEGGS

CHICAGO, April 10.—Armed posses numbering nearly 200 angry farmers, armed with shotguns, revolvers and rifles, and riding horseback, in automobiles and other vehicles today, joined in a man hunt to run down the yeggmen who shortly after midnight dynamited the safe at Albert Frank's Lake Zurich store and escaped with $1,200. The robbers fled in a stolen horse and buggy. They are thought to be headed for Chicago. If the angry farmers catch up with them, violence is feared.

AGED RESIDENT IS CALLED

Mrs. Frances Wrizinski, resident of La Crosse for forty-six years, died at 6:15 this morning at a local hospital, of apoplexy with which she was stricken several weeks ago. She was 65 years of age.

Surviving her are five daughters and one son, Mrs. Robert Michaelson, Everett, Wash.; Mrs. A. Teske, Portage, Wis.; Mrs. F. C. Lagrange, Lakeside, Wash., and Helen and Frances, at home, and Frank of Kennedy, Wis.

The funeral will be held at 8:30 Wednesday from the home and at 9 o'clock from Holy Cross church, Rev. Fr. Kufel officiating. Interment will be in the Catholic cemetery.

ELECTED—DEAD—BURIED

ELGIN, Ill., April 10.—Butter sales were made at 29 1/2c, 30 1/2c and 31 1/2c, mostly at 31 1/2c as against 28 1/2 to 29 1/2c last week.

Four New Managers in the Two Big Leagues

The National and American leagues will enter this baseball season with four new managers, two in each league. Among these, perhaps, the most interesting is "Wild Bill" Donovan, new manager of the New York Americans.

"I'm going to rule with kind words, not hard knocks nor hard language," says "Wild Bill." "Wild Bill" was one of the greatest pitchers of his time, and he has been credited with having some of the brains that made the Tigers of Detroit league champions when he was with them.

ETTEL INCIDENT TO CLOSE WITH PAYMENT FOR FRYE

WASHINGTON, April 10.—With the German converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich interned at the Norfolk navy yard, officials today said the situation growing out of her operations soon will be a closed incident.

Germany has agreed to pay all bills for the sinking of the Frye.

The cargo, however, will not be paid for until it is shown conclusively that the money is not to be refunded to an English concern which had bought the cargo.

Germany justifies the action of the Eitel's commander under the declaration of London but agrees to settle under the old Prussian treaties of 1799 and 1828.

Local and Personal

The marriage banns of Miss Celia Howes and Maurice Regan were published Sunday for the first time by Rev. Fr. McNamara of Lycurgus.

Mrs. A. Barrett, who several weeks ago was stricken with paralysis, died at her home Wednesday morning. She was 86 years of age. She was among the earliest settlers in Allamakee county and resided on a farm in Post township until 20 years ago when she moved to Waukon. The funeral will take place Friday from the Catholic church.

The Allamakee hotel, which has been vacant almost a year, has been sold to M. A. G. Cleaves of Clear Lake, who will open a first class hotel in about two weeks, after he has refurbished it and had some repairing done.

Be sure to ask for Hood's; insist on having it.

MYSTERY VEILS CAFE SHOOTING

Stenographer Attempts to Shoot Client of Her Employer Alleging She Was Gossiped About

MAN PROMISES EXPLANATION

Attorney Everett Jennings Holds Key to the Causes Back of Mysterious Affray

CHICAGO, April 10.—Interest in Chicago's sensational shooting affray in which two women were involved at Natalby's cafe centered today in a statement promised later by Everett Jennings, "the man in the case."

Miss Genevieve Irvine, a young stenographer in the law office of Jennings, who is attorney for the Illinois State Public Utilities commission, was prostrated at the home. She is out on bond, accused of attempting to shoot Mrs. Hugh McLennan, divorcee and client of Jennings.

Only the following facts could be gleaned from Manager Joseph Schmidt of Natalby's. Miss Irvine entered the restaurant about 1 o'clock and asked if a Miss Jennings had been in. Obtaining a negative answer the girl sat down in the rear of the restaurant. Some time later, a young woman, whom Schmidt has heard addressed as Miss Jennings, entered with another woman and a little girl.

A few minutes later "Miss Jennings" went to Miss Irvine's table. There were two shots. "Miss Jennings" ran to the street. Miss Irvine collapsed. Both women were taken to a police hospital.

Miss Irvine said today that Mrs. McLennan was jealous of her close association with Jennings as his private secretary. She declared that for weeks a woman has been spreading gossip about her; that she had not slept for several nights and that she was driven to desperation, as she remembers nothing of the shooting.

"HELLO" GIRLS OF LA CROSSE GO TO WORK ON ROLLERS

Half a score of pretty "hello" girls of the La Crosse Telephone company are daily going to and from their employment on roller skates, and men and women all over the city are catching the spirit of the sport. If the noisy pastime continues in favor, La Crosse will be on wheels this summer. Boys and girls are skating on every sidewalk in the city. Pavements on the four streets surrounding the high school building on South Sixteenth street are veritable skating rinks every pleasant evening.

LORIMER TO FACE TRIAL RULES COURT

CHICAGO, April 10.—William Lorimer, whose election to the United States senate was declared illegal, must stand trial in the Illinois courts on charges of misappropriation of funds in connection with the crash of his LaSalle Street Trust & Savings bank, while operating as a state bank. Judge O'Connor today refused the motion of Lorimer's attorneys to quash the indictment against the former "blond boss."

Best Household Gods.

The man of high descent may love the halls and lands of his inheritance as a part of himself, as trophies of his birth and power; the poor man's attachment to the tenement he holds, which strangers have held before and may tomorrow occupy again, has a worthier root, stuck deep into a purer soil. His household gods are of flesh and blood, with no alloy of silver, gold or precious stones.—Charles Dickens.

Bad Habit to Cultivate.

The habit of dissipating every serious thought by a suggestion of agreeable sensations is as fatal to happiness as to virtue; for when amusement is uniformly substituted for objects of moral and mental interest, we lose all that elevates our enjoyments above the scale of childish pleasures.—Anna Maria Porter.

RECEIVERS NAMED FOR GREENHUT CO.

NEW YORK, April 10.—An echo of the financial difficulties of the J. B. Greenhut & Company, operating the Siegel-Cooper department stores in New York, was the appointment today by Federal Judge Hand of receivers for the Greenhut company. Former Judge Walter C. Noyes and William A. Marble, president of the Merchants' association, were appointed receivers under $100,000 bonds, with authority to continue the business.

The receivership was based on a suit by the Monmouth Trust company for $200,000 defaulted loans, and was consented to by the Greenhut company.

A petition in bankruptcy filed against the Greenhut company alleged that the corporation's assets were $6,000,000, exclusive of realty, and its liabilities $12,000,000. Wholesale merchants who sold merchandise to the company are behind the bankruptcy proceedings.

WILSON SEES NO PEACE

WASHINGTON, April 10.—That President Wilson sees small hope of early peace in Europe was the interpretation placed today on his Thursday night's speech at the Methodist Protestant conference here.

CHURCH NEWS

To Celebrate the Landing of Pilgrims

Governor Walsh of Massachusetts has appointed a Pilgrim commission to have charge of the three hundredth anniversary celebration of the landing of the Pilgrims. Former Governor Guild, lately died, was named as chairman. Congregationalists appropriately have two of the seven members. One is the Rev. Dr. A. E. Dunlap, long editor of the "Congregationalist," and the other former Mayor or James Logan of Worcester. Other members are Sherman Whipple, a Boston lawyer, Ralph Adams Cram, consulting architect of the new Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York, an Episcopalian, Denis A. McCarthy, editor of a Catholic paper of Boston, while Plymouth is itself represented by Arthur Lord, head of the Pilgrim society of that city.

American Children Send Bibles to Soldiers

Two hundred thousand children in American Sunday schools, for the most part Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist, up to April 1 had contributed a nickel to buy a New Testament to send to men in trenches and on battlefields in European wars. The plan is in charge of the World's Sunday school association, and contemplates similar action by one million children, one million nickels, one million New Testaments and one million enlisted men. In a very short time a fifth of the stint is accomplished.

Within the week the $10,000 has been forwarded by the American Bible society to various nations engaged in the wars. In these countries are Bible societies or agencies. The money sent to these societies is invested in New Testaments printed in the language that enlisted men speak. The first $10,000 of American money went to almost every nation now at war, or by arrangement with Bible distributors, every soldier speaking any language is to be served with a New Testament in his own tongue.

Scotch, British and French societies have already furnished thousands of such New Testaments. Usually those so furnished contain also the Psalms. An excellent book, bound in cloth and well printed, is provided for the nickel. Inside the front cover of Testaments so furnished is placed a statement giving the history of the movement, and the fact that the book came from an American Sunday school boy or girl.

English Speakers for Conferences are Scarce

Summer conference promoters this year find it impossible to secure English speakers and teachers as on previous years because of the war. All English and Scotch missionary societies report their work staffs depleted, often important members being at the front, and therefore unable to send any men or women to American conferences. These societies report that their own summer work will be crippled for lack of speakers. At the same time American conferences look for far larger numbers in attendance this season because few can go abroad, and because many will be traveling across the continent and may be induced to stop at summer conference resorts.

Conferences in charge of the missionary education movement start this year at Blue Ridge, North Carolina, on June 26, take in Silver Bay on Lake George, July 9 to 18, and conclude at Ocean Park, Maine, July 22 to 30. Another series begins in California July 2, transfers to Estes Park, Colorado, July 16 to 25, and concludes at Lake Geneva, Wis., August 6 to 15. At all of these conferences church efficiency is to be presented, this year with greater prominence than ever.

American speakers and teachers drawn upon for these conferences this year, some of them for the first time, and to take the places of absent English leaders, include Bishop Nelson of Georgia, Prof. R. E. Gaines of Richmond college, Bishop Rhineland of Pennsylvania, the Rev. D. Arthur J. Brown of the Presbyterian foreign board, and Bishop Stuntz of the Methodist church, stationed at Buenos Aires.

Button Hints.

To fasten buttons tightly begin to sew on the right side and sew back and forth several times before you begin to sew through the button. The knot will be under the button and not on the wrong side, to be rubbed off in laundering. In sewing buttons on coats sew over a match or toothpick and wrap thread for a "shank."

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.

OLD STYLE BOOM IN STOCKS COMING?

New York Stock Market Is Excited and Bullish Today
Following Flurry in Bethlehem Steel

WILD RUMORS ARE SET AFLOAT

Reported That Shorts Have Been Cornered and That
100 Per Cent Dividend
Is to Be Declared

NEW YORK, April 10.—The stock market today felt almost forgotten symptoms of an old-fashioned boom. A bullish market today followed the recent upturn in prices and wild fluctuations in Bethlehem steel. The floor was crowded and much excitement prevailed.

Exchange Calls Rise Legitimate
The exchange issued an official statement declaring that a "period of great speculation comes after every great war and such speculation is now evident," but denied that there was any evidence of manipulation or a corner in Bethlehem Steel. This stock today continued its erratic course, opening with a rush at 107 to 110, climbing to 115 and then reacting.

Wild Rumors Afloat
The wildest rumors were in circulation regarding the stock before the opening gong sounded today. Reports of a squeeze of shorts in a "corner" of the stock, a "melon cutting" in the form of a 100 per cent stock dividend and threatened investigation of the manipulations by the exchange's board of governors put the traders on edge. Some brokers refused to accept any margin deals in it today, declaring it was "dynamite."

It was pointed out that the rise from 88 to 117 yesterday and reaction to 105 at the close—in a stock that has never paid a dividend and with none in prospect, officially—made it a dangerous industrial for margin speculation.

803 N. 6th St., Springfield, Ill.—"Several months ago I was troubled with pimples all over my face. The breaking out was unsightly and the burning and itching caused me to scratch which irritated the pimples. They caused me to lose much sleep for they itched all night long. They disfigured me while they lasted. My face was very sore. The pimples then broke out all over my body also. My clothes felt uncomfortable.

"One day I heard about Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used two cakes of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment, and was healed, and not a scar was left." (Signed) Carlyle C. Bryan, October 30, '14.

RIVAL FACTIONS IN MEXICO EACH LAY CLAIM TO VICTORY

Washington Is Puzzled to Know Whether Carranzists or Villa's Reports
Are to Be Believed

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Whether Carranza or Villa arms were victorious in the fighting at Irapuato, or whether the fighting is still going on with the issue in doubt is a matter which is perplexing the minds of the state department here today. The Irapuato battle is expected to be of considerable effect in deciding who is the "strong man" of Mexico.

Carranzists here today received dispatches, declaring that Villa was in full flight at the head of his troops, after losing 3,000 men, a quarter of his force, in the battle. Villistas reports said that the Carranzistas were in retreat to Queretaro, where they were expected to make a stand, and that the "First Chief's" men had withdrawn from the state of Guadalupe.

Officials still refuse comment on General Huerta's expected arrival in New York next Saturday. The state department's legal experts are reported to have decided there is no way he can be kept out the country. Carranza, it is said, will ask that admission be refused on the ground that Huerta plans to violate American neutrality by organizing a new revolution within its boundaries. If he can prove this, the department could act, but it is not believed he has any concrete proof.

FITZ—BRIDEGROOM— DEFIES WILLARD

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Freckled and defiant Bob Fitzsimmons passed down Pennsylvania avenue today with his fourth bride on his arm, declaring he is willing to bet $10,000—"and my farm"—that he can lick Jess Willard after two months' training.

Fitz was married at the National hotel here Thursday to Miss Timothea Zillen, a pretty French girl, said to speak twenty-four languages.

Several solos were sung by Miss Olga Bakken.

GARROS HERO OF AIR BATTLE

PARIS, April 10.—Roland G. Garros, famous French aviator, was the hero of a thrilling air battle in northern France, according to a story published here today. Garros attacked a German aviator over the allied lines. For several minutes the two birdmen circled about each other, firing rapidly. Then a bullet from Garros' rapid firer pierced the German's gasoline tank, causing an explosion that sent him tumbling to the ground.

STATE REPUBLICAN CLUB INCORPORATES

Outgrowth of Recent Dinner at Milwaukee Formal-ly Organizes Into G. O. P. Association

MADISON, Wis., April 10.—The Wisconsin Republican club filed articles of incorporation today with the office of secretary of state. The club is the outgrowth of the recent republican "get-together" dinner at Milwaukee at which Governor Philipp, John Hays Hammond, and other prominent members of the party spoke.

The purpose of the rejuvenated organization is the "promotion of the study of political and social science, the collection and dissemination of knowledge concerning the civil and political institutions of the state, the establishment of a library and reading rooms at the headquarters in Milwaukee."

The incorporators are: Alvin P. Kletsch, George A. West, Julius E. Roehr, H. A. Verges, L. Kuehn, Charles H. John, W. P. O'Connor, George S. Meredith, Walter J. Wilde, C. G. Forster, Otto H. Falk, August H. Vogel, Theodore O. Vilter, August C. Kurz, H. August Luedke, Gardner P. Stickney and Elias H. Bottom, all of Milwaukee.

Charity.
Organized or unorganized, all charity is good if it helps the deserving, and in the general proposition prompt giving is more desirable than professional machinery. All the time and effort wasted in criticism might well be used with larger comfort to those who need food and clothes.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

AUSTRIAN HUSSARS DASH THROUGH POLISH VILLAGE ON WAY TO REINFORCE MAIN ARMY

Spring comes late in Russian Poland, as this picture just received from the eastern battle front would seem to indicate. The photo shows a band of Austrian hussars dashing madly through a Polish village on their way to reinforce the main army.

American Victim on British Ship Sunk by Germans

When the German submarine sent to the bottom of the Bristol channel the British ship Falaba, March 28, with some 140 passengers and crew, they caused the death, it is believed of Leon Chester Thresher, an American. Mr. Thresher was a mining engineer on his way to West Africa. His home was in Hardwick, Mass. He was about thirty-one years of age, and was not married.

His mother and brother live in Hardwick. No representations have so far been made to the state department at Washington. The Germans killed him—unless he is among those saved and yet unaccounted for—on a peaceful merchant vessel. The attitude of the administration in Washington will of course not become known until the case has been investigated.

We Aim To Be Right and in Selling the New "HERRICK" Refrigerator We Are Right

Food flavors will not mix and there is no condensation in provision chamber. It is absolutely dry. The current of pure, cold air throughout the entire refrigerator is so powerful that it carries all gases and odors into the ice chamber and directly against the ice, which purifies and deodorizes it.

Perhaps You Do Not Understand the difference between perfect and imperfect circulation in a refrigerator. If not, examine the two cuts shown. A refrigerator constructed like the right hand cut must be lined with zinc to keep it dry, in which case you have the poisonous oxide from corroding zinc to contend with. This must affect milk and food. The HERRICK has perfect circulation and no zinc to contend with.

WAGON TRAIN TAKING SUPPLIES TO TROOPS ON MEXICAN BORDER

Thousands of American troops are now stationed along the Mexican border, some of them many miles from a railroad. So wagon trains are constantly employed in moving supplies to the soldiers. The photo shows one of these trains about to leave a Texas town.

SHOULD DRESS FOR MEN

"The trouble nowadays," said Miss Elsa Ryan of "Peg o' My Heart," which comes to the La Crosse theatre Tuesday, April 13, "is that women dress more for each other, instead of for the masculine eye. For one I think a man's taste is generally right. He sees you as a picture, without realizing the details, and therefore the effect upon him comes suddenly like an impulse. Other women will criticize the small details of your attire, say that the girdle is too high, or that your skirt doesn't hang just right, instead of taking in the whole color scheme and treating you as a picture."

"Remember the most famous designers of women's creations on the Rue de la Paix are all men. They have naturally a more artistic mind. By the way, who makes all the beautiful illustrations, with fetching hats and gowns, but men. Dress for them and you can't go wrong."

LIFE ABOARD DREADNAUGHTS
So completely has the world-historic conflict in Europe demonstrated how much a nation's life depends upon its navy, and the subject is one of such vital and timely interest that Lyman H. Howe will present at the La Crosse theatre on April 23 and 24, a notable reproduction of the U. S. navy of today in all its aspects. It shows our super-dreadnaughts from keel to truck, from ram to stern post. They are truly great fighting machines, and this film depicts the tremendous complication of machinery by means of which they

HIGHS BANQUET AND DANCE LAST NIGHT

One Hundred and Seventy-five Attend Junior-Senior Prom of Sparta High School; Is Success

SPARTA, Wis., April 10.—(Special.)—The Junior-Senior Prom last night at Assembly hall was perhaps the most successful ever held by Spartans. The hall was beautifully decorated with the seniors' colors, interwoven with the juniors' with big paper daisies.

About one hundred and seventy-five sat down to the four course banquet.

After the speeches the evening was spent in dancing.

Ora Riley Dies
The death of Ora Riley occurred yesterday morning at the home of his mother, Mrs. Casky on Jefferson avenue, from Bright's disease.

The funeral services will be held at the home on Jefferson avenue on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Clifford will officiate and interment will be made in Mount Hope cemetery.

CRITICS ALL LAUD VICTOR MURDOCK

Victor Murdock, who lectures in the normal lecture course next Monday evening, April 12, made his reputation in the sixty-first congress. Testimony to his qualities is found in comments like the following:

"He is a strong character. He is a force in congress. He is intrepid and relentless. He cares not a rap for defeat. It only makes him more resolute for another assault. He has been a power for good and has accomplished reforms undreamed of only some few years ago."—"Savoyard" in Kansas Star.

"Even the most cordial enemies of the fiery-haired rustler from the Sunflower state are willing to confess that he is one of the liveliest wires lying around in the city of Washington."—Baltimore News.

Had Tuberculosis, —Now Insured

When you know a man has been afflicted with Consumption, and later obtained insurance, it means that he has recovered his health, as in this case:

142 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, N. Y. "Gentlemen:—I was troubled with night sweats, a severe cough and was very weak, having, in fact, absolutely no ambition whatever. I consulted a physician, who told me my lungs were affected. Not satisfied, I went to another doctor, who said that I was in the first stages of Consumption. At this point I started to take Eckman's Alternative. The night sweats stopped almost immediately, my cough became looser and gradually disappeared. My weight is now 142 pounds, and my physician has pronounced me perfectly sound—which, together with the fact that I have just been accepted by two different insurance companies for insurance, makes me sure of my entire recovery." (Abbreviated.) (Affidavit) W. E. GEE.

Eckman's Alternative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and upbuilding the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Small size, $1; regular size, $2. Sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of recoveries.

Appropriate.
A distinguished theologian was invited to give an address before a Sunday school. The divine spoke for over an hour, and his remarks were too deep to comprehend. At the conclusion the superintendent, according to custom, requested some one in the school to name an appropriate hymn to be sung. "Sing 'Revive Us Again,'" shouted a boy in the rear of the room.

How a German Submarine Sank the Falaba, When 140 Persons Were Lost.

No fewer than 140 persons, including passengers and crew, went to their deaths when a German submarine attacked the British ship Falaba the other day. This drawing by A. W. Reddy, a well known marine artist, shows how the ship was attacked. Among those lost on her was Leon C. Thrasher, an American of Massachusetts, a mining engineer. "We have orders to sink everything," said the commander of the submarine U-10 which sank three British trawlers April 1. That is the new German method of war, as shown in the sinking of the Falaba without notice, which resulted in the loss of so many lives. While the number of British ships sunk by the submarines is not large, when compared to the total amount of shipping from British ports, yet it is sufficient already to make many mariners pause. And it has been the cause of insurance rates going up. It is becoming the opinion of those who have watched the German operations that they propose terrorizing British commerce. If they continue to sink ships without warning so crew and passengers are lost, they figure, it will have a more terrible effect on commerce than the mere loss of ships and cargoes.

JUSTICE FOR THE NEGRO ASKED IN ANONYMOUS LETTER

Writer Claims That Black Race Has Lost Its Regard for Jack
Johnson

NOT IN SYMPATHY WITH HIM

Gross Immorality Has Made the Average Negro Turn from the One Time
Hero, He Says

That Jack Johnson, ex-heavy-weight champion of the world, has lost his hold on the colored race of this country, not through the loss of the title, which was inevitable, but through his immorality, is the tenor of a letter received by THE TRIBUNE, signed, "A Colored Citizen of La Crosse."

The letter, entitled "The Negro's Point of View," is in reality a plea for justice to the American negro.

The letter:
"The championship has passed from the black man to the white man, and great is the rejoicing among the people of Jess Willard's race. Everywhere are they voicing their sentiments, and therefore, I, a citizen of La Crosse, take this opportunity to voice the sentiment of one of the race to which the defeated champion, Jack Johnson, belongs. I earnestly believe that my personal view of the matter expresses, to a great extent, the view taken by at least four-fifths of my people; and to do justice to this view, and to give the public a proper idea of our attitude toward the loss of the belt, I write this article.

"On July 4, 1910, (the date of the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno), Jack Johnson was everywhere proclaimed by the negroes as the hero of his race. We were as proud of him as any race ever was of any one of its heroes. And why? Because he had scored one more point of achievement for the black race. Pugilism has been called the white man's game. This implies that, because a man is born of the Ethiopian race, he must not aspire to win honors in the various fields of civilization. And this is the Caucasian's boasted 'broaderness of mind.'

Johnson Failed
"However, Jack Johnson, our hero, could not—at least did not—live up to the expectations of his worshippers. I do not refer to his professional phase of life, but I do refer to his morals—rather his lack of them. The black race has morals as well as any race; and when Jack Johnson violated the morals of his race, the esteem in which his race held him suffered a terrific blow. The black race is a race the repute of which suffers severely from the base act on the part of one of its individuals: the whole race is seemingly held responsible for the vile acts of any one of its people. Consequently the publicity which the American negro has received through the misdeeds of ex-champion Jack Johnson is deplorable and humiliating. From the infinite numbers of articles which have filled the newspapers concerning the event of last Monday, I quote this one short passage as the only one that I have seen which gives the negroes any credit for having an ennobling sense of refinement:

Defense for the Negro
"The worst phase of the situation was the insult which the pugilist represented to the large class of colored men who recognized him for a vicious libertine, and held him in contempt. We believe the better element of the race aspires to a higher type of leadership than that personified in the fallen champion."

"One article remarks that 'fistiana does not care to witness again a fight between a white man and a black man, in which the latter may be the victor.' It is unnecessary to question this remark further than to say that nothing but ignorance and narrowness of mind gave rise to such statements.

"Yes the Negro regrets that the belt has passed from his race as deeply as did the white man on July 4, 1910; but he does not regret that the race no longer has for its hero one so unfit and so unworthy of representing its higher ideals of manhood as Jack Johnson proved himself to be.

"Respectfully yours,
"A COLORED CITIZEN OF LA CROSSE."

NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO COUNTY COURT.

State of Wisconsin, County Court, La Crosse County, ss.—In Probate.
Notice is hereby given that at a special term of the County Court, to be held in and for said County, at the Court House, in the City of La Crosse, in said County, on the third Tuesday, being the 20th day of April, A. D. 1915, at ten o'clock A. M., the following matter will be heard and considered:

The application of Mary, Fred, Ingvald and Overt Gulbrandson, to admit to probate the last will and testament of Frederick Gulbrandson, late of the City of La Crosse, in said County of La Crosse, deceased, and for the appointment of an administrator with the will annexed of the estate of said deceased.

By order of the Court,
JOHN BRINDLEY,

EAU CLAIRE TEAMS PLAY LOCALS AT Y. M. C. A. TONIGHT

Handball and Volleyball Tilts Will Be Staged Between La Crosse and Eau Claire

Evans and Solte, handball champions of the Y. M. C. A., will this evening meet the champions of the Eau Claire Y. M. C. A. on the local court, in what is conceded to be a match to decide the championship of the northern and western sections of the state. Eau Claire has met and defeated practically all the teams of the northern part of the state.

Eau Claire volleyball ballers who some time ago defeated the La Crosse team at Eau Claire, will also make the trip here to meet local athletes. That the match tonight will be of a different nature than that at Eau Claire is the promise of Captain Pieper, who has had his men out for several days in hard practice sessions for the series tonight. The lineup has been a matter of conjecture. Pieper planning not to chose it definitely until shortly before the game, although tentative lineups have been played in practice.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat also take glass of Salts before eating breakfast.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush out the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from back-ache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Drug-gists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

GUNDS WIN TITLE OF THE LA CROSSE BOWLING LEAGUE

Championship of the City
Bowlers Goes to Brewers
When They Win Last Night

Rolling in American Bowling congress form, the Gunds last night clinched the title of the La Crosse City Bowling league, by winning three straight games from the Eagles No. 2 in a postponed series. The Brewers knocked down 2,702 pins in the series, the second game of which resulted in a 944 score. The first game went 912. Stannard rolled high score of the match, 221, in the last game.

The standings of the Gunds and the Nelsons are now 783 and 719. Even though the Gunds should lose their next match with the La Crosse club and the Nelsons win their postponed match, the standings would still be in favor of the Gunds, 746 and 733.

The scores:

BECHTOLD WINS MEET AT NORMAL

West Salem Man Beats
Harold Taylor for First Place in Meet Last Night

Carl T. Bechtold, West Salem, last night proved himself the individual champion athlete of the normal school at the indoor track and field meet. Harold Taylor of La Crosse, earned second place. Of the women, Miss Marie T. Hyde of La Crosse, was awarded the first place and Miss Frances Blanchard, Lewiston, Minn., second. The men engaged in five events in the order following: thirty yard dash; shot put; high jump; hand-over-hand rope climb, and wrestling. The women engaged in three events: thirty yard dash; high jump from rinks, and pole climb.

The events were run in the elimination program, the winners of one event continuing to the next event in order. Of the men only two were left for the last event which was wrestling. Bechtold and Taylor wrestled for the championship. Bechtold winning in five minutes on a half Nelson hold.

Three were left for the last event of the co-eds class, Miss Hyde winning first and Miss Blanchard second. The winners were presented with silver cups. Bechtold and Taylor are members of Dr. Carl B. Sputh's physical education class.

TEAMS IN FIRST WORKOUTS SUNDAY

Nelsons, Athletes and Train-men Will All Get Out
Tomorrow for Initial Practices

The Athletes at normal school field.

The Nelsons at Copeland park. The Trainmen at Copeland park. Such is the program for tomorrow, the first day of workouts of the season for the three La Crosse semi-professional baseball teams.

Sixteen athletes are expected by Manager William Krause of the Athletes to report for work tomorrow afternoon at normal school field. The session is to be in the nature of a stiff practice for the game two weeks from tomorrow with the Nelsons at league park, the first game of the year.

Copeland park will be the scene of spirited practices of the Nelsons and the Trainmen. Managers Comeau and Boyle will have their season's stars out for the grind. A short game may be staged between the teams.

ROOKIES AND REGULARS

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Eddie Collins slammed a homer, a double and two singles in four trips to the plate and the White Sox won, 6 to 2.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—It took the Cubs ten innings to win over Memphis, 6 to 5. Vic Saier stopped the game with a timely single.

RICHMOND, Va.—McGraw's Giants hook up here today with Jack Dunn's new International leaguers. A 20 to 0 victory over King college yesterday at Bristol, Tenn., gave McGraw hope that the Giants had pulled out of their recent batting slump.

NEWARK, N. J.—Sale of the Newark International club by the Ebbetts-McKeever interests to the Newark syndicate will be completed Monday, according to reports here today.

PHILADELPHIA.—The Athletics and Phillies will meet this afternoon in the last game of the series for the city championship. The Mackmen have two victories to their credit while Moran's sluggers have one.

WASHINGTON.—Walter Johnson was scheduled to occupy the mound this afternoon when the Nationals meet the Boston world's champions in the second game of their series.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Boston Red Sox stopped the victorious march of the Reds yesterday, 6 to 5, but the Reds had only themselves to blame. Errors caused their downfall.

FREDDIE NEARLY SURPRISED AS HE FALLS FOR TRICK

TOLEDO, O., April 10.—"Your tight's are coming down," whispered Billy Wagner to Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion of the world, in the eighth period of their ten round bout here last night. Welsh fell for this old trick, glanced down and came within an ace of losing his title.

Wagner hooked an upper cut to his jaw, but was so surprised to find the champion would fall for the bluff that he didn't wallop as effectively as he might have. Wagner made Welsh fight hard all the way. The champion had a slight shade.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS.
